

The following constitutes the order of the court. Signed April 24, 2012

M. Elaine Hammond

M. Elaine Hammond
U.S. Bankruptcy Judge

UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

In re
CHAND & COMPANY, LLC,

Case No. 11-41277 MEH
Chapter 11

Debtor. /

MEMORANDUM DECISION

On March 23, 2012, the court held an evidentiary hearing on the objection of debtor Chand & Company LLC ("Debtor") to the claim filed by Joyti Kumar ("Kumar") in the amount of $485,278.73. Mufthiha Sabaratnam appeared for Debtor and Shawn Parr for Kumar. The court heard testimony of Nilesh Chand ("Chand"), owner of Debtor, and claimant Kumar. Following the hearing, each party submitted an accounting of the claim calculation.

For the reasons stated below, the objection to Kumar's claim will be overruled in part and sustained in part.

This Memorandum Decision constitutes the court's findings of fact and conclusions of law, pursuant to Rule 7052 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure.

Decision

1 A. Background

2 Debtor filed a petition under Chapter 11 on February 4, 2011. On 3 October 17, 2011, Kumar filed Proof of Claim No. 3-2 in the amount of 4 $485,278.73<sup>1</sup> (the "Claim") based on funds owed pursuant to a Promissory
5 Note dated August 14, 2008 (the "Note"). Debtor filed an Objection to 6 Claim on September 24, 2011.

7 In 2008, Debtor purchased a specialty supermarket (the "Market")
8 from Kumar and his wife, Deo Kumar. Pursuant to the Bill of Sale<sup>2</sup> for 9 the transaction, the total purchase price was $400,000, composed of 10 $25,000 paid at closing and the Note for $375,000. The Note is payable 11 to the Kumars with interest at 6% per annum in monthly installments of 12 $11,000.

13 The parties dispute the amount paid to date on the Note. Debtor
14 asserts the obligation was reduced by (1) monthly installment payments
15 made on the Note, (2) a $100,000 cashier's check, (3) additional in-
16 store payments made to Kumar and (4) credit card transactions processed
17 on Kumar's account.

18 It is hard to know what transpired between Debtor and Kumar in 19 2008 and 2009. In several instances neither party presented evidence
20 conclusive of its position. The determination of whether certain 21 payments should be applied to the Note was a close call and decided 22 based on whether Kumar, as claimant, satisfied his ultimate burden of 23

---

24 <sup>1</sup> Debtor also objected to Proof of Claim No. 4, filed by Kumar against 25 Chand. Kumar agreed that the Claim is his only valid claim in this bankruptcy case. Therefore, the objection to Proof of Claim No. 4 is granted.

26 <sup>2</sup>Exhibit 2

1 establishing the amount due on the claim.

2
3 B. Discussion

4 (1) Burden of Proof

5 In a bankruptcy case pre-petition claims are asserted by means of 6 a proof of claim. See 11 U.S.C. § 501(a). The Bankruptcy Code in 7 Section 502(a) further determines that:

8 A claim or interest, proof of which is filed under 9 section 501 of this title, is deemed allowed, unless a party in interest . . . objects.

10 Accordingly, if a creditor executes and files a proof of claim in 11 compliance with the Bankruptcy Code and applicable rules, the proof of 12 claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of 13 the claim. See Fed. R. Bankr. P. 3001(f).

14 The evidentiary effect of Fed. R. Bankr. P. 3001(f) remains in 15 force, even in the event a party in interest files an objection to the 16 claim. In re Wylie, 349 B.R. 204, 210 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2006).

17 Thus, the objecting party carries the burden of going forward with 18 evidence supporting its objection to the validity of the amount of the 19 claim. Such evidence must be of a "probative force equal to that of 20 the allegations of the [creditor's] proofs of claim." Wright v. Holm 21 (In re Holm), 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir.1991) (citing Collier on 22 Bankruptcy). If the objecting party succeeds in overcoming the prima
23 facie effect of the proof of claim, the ultimate burden of persuasion
24 then rests on the claimant. In re Wylie, 349 B.R. 204, 210 (B.A.P. 9th 25 Cir. 2006).
26

1 (2) Monthly Installment Payments on the Note

2 The parties agree that between October 2008 and March 2009 Debtor
3 paid $46,000 on the Note.<sup>3</sup>

4 Debtor further asserts that additional payments of $20,000 in cash
5 were made during this period. Debtor relies on two items: (1) Check
6 No. 1194 in the amount of $6,000, dated February 15, 2009,<sup>4</sup> which 7 includes in the memo line "Feb. Pay + $5000 Cash" and (2) a pre-lawsuit
8 demand letter, dated May 8, 2009, from Kumar's counsel.<sup>5</sup> The demand
9 letter provides that payments on the Note commenced September 15, 2008
10 and demands payment of the April 15, 2009 payment.

11 The check notation and demand letter lead the court to find that 12 additional cash payments were made by the Debtor on the Note through 13 March 2009, such that there was no default in the monthly payments
14 prior to that date. Accordingly, the Claim is reduced by $31,000 on 15 account of the monthly payments on the Note.<sup>6</sup>

16
17 (3) Cashier's Check in the amount of $100,000

18 The Bill of Sale required a $25,000 payment at closing with the 19 remainder of the purchase price paid according to the Note. Chand

---

20
21 <sup>3</sup>Exhibit 5 (Debtor's Exhibit of monthly payments made on the 22 Note) and Exhibit H (Kumar's Exhibit of monthly payments made on 23 the Note). See also Post-Trial Accounting for Proof of Claim
[Docket No. 101] filed on behalf of Kumar.

24 <sup>4</sup>Included within Exhibit 5.

25 <sup>5</sup>Exhibit 4

26 <sup>6</sup> Kumar's proof of claim calculation included a reduction of $46,000 based on monthly payments.

1 testified that he paid $25,000 in cash (i.e. a stack of bills) on 2 August 14, 2008. He admitted that he did not obtain a receipt for the 3 $25,000.

4 Chand introduced a copy of a cashier's check payable to Kumar in 5 the amount of $100,000, dated one day after the Bill of Sale.<sup>7</sup> He 6 testified that these funds were an initial payment on the Note.
7 According to Chand, the cashier's check constituted "key money," paid
8 to Kumar for turnover of the keys to the Market on August 15, 2008.
9 At Kumar's request, it further provided Kumar with comfort that the 10 Debtor would pay the full purchase price.

11 Kumar disputes this, asserting that the cashier's check was 12 applied as the initial payment of $25,000 and as a $75,000 advance
13 payment for future purchases of inventory for the Market from Kumar.
14 Kumar continues to operate a wholesale business supplying goods for 15 Indian markets. Kumar submitted receipts for subsequent purchases of 16 inventory for the Market, with notations that the invoices were 17 credited against the advance payment,<sup>8</sup> along with a letter from Kumar
18 dated prior to the sale closing.<sup>9</sup> Chand disputed receiving the letter.

19 Chand countered that the Market had sufficient inventory at the 20 time of purchase and did not require a large advance payment for future
21 purchases. He also testified that the Market did not purchase goods
22 from Kumar.

---

24 <sup>7</sup>Exhibit 3

25 <sup>8</sup>Exhibit E

26 <sup>9</sup>Exhibit G

1 Based on insufficient evidence that a cash payment of $25,000 was 2 made at closing in addition to the cashier's check, and the dates of 3 the cashier's check and Bill of Sale, the court finds that $25,000 of 4 the cashier's check was the initial payment required by the Bill of 5 Sale.

6 Application of the remaining balance of $75,000 paid by the 7 cashier's check is an even closer call. Neither the Bill of Sale nor 8 Note require an initial payment in this amount for any purpose.
9 However, Chand's testimony that the store was adequately stocked at the 10 time of purchase is credible. Chand also disputes that the invoices
11 showing application of the cashier's check proceeds<sup>10</sup> are valid, noting 12 that the individual who signed as receiving the goods, Chandar Deo, is 13 a customer of the store, not an individual authorized to accept goods
14 on its behalf. A review of the invoices reveals that the invoices Kumar 15 relies upon provide for purchases of $52,335 within 10 days of the sale 16 and that the remainder of the advance was presumably exhausted within 17 two and a half months. The purchases included in these invoices are 18 approximately five times the amount due on other invoices submitted 19 during trial.

20 Kumar also relies on the Debtor's 2009 federal and state tax
21 returns showing a Note of $375,000 payable in less than one year.<sup>11</sup>
22 The terms of the Note do not require payment within one year and the 23 parties agree that at least $46,000 was paid on the Note by March 2009.

---

24
25 <sup>10</sup>Exhibit E

26 <sup>11</sup>Exhibit I

1 Neither of these facts is reflected on the returns. Therefore, the 2 court does not find these returns conclusive evidence of the remaining
3 balance of the Note.

4 The court finds that the Bill of Sale and Note are the only signed
5 agreements evidencing payment obligations from the Debtor to Kumar.
6 Neither of these agreements provides for an advance payment towards the 7 purchase of inventory as a term of the transaction. There is credible
8 testimony that the Market had sufficient inventory at the time of sale.
9 The purchase of significant inventory shortly after the closing, and 10 in amounts significantly greater than other inventory purchases is 11 inconsistent with a well-stocked store. Therefore, the remaining 12 $75,000 of the cashier's check is found to have been a payment on the 13 Note. The Claim shall be reduced by $75,000 on account of this 14 payment.

15
16 (4) In Store Transactions

17 Debtor next asserts that the Note should be reduced by cash and 18 check payments made to Kumar during his frequent visits to the Market.
19 Chand testified that he provided additional payments when Kumar would 20 come into the store, buy groceries and ask for money. As evidence of 21 these payments Debtor provided a collection of checks purportedly
22 reflecting in store payments made to Kumar on account of the Note.<sup>12</sup>

23 Kumar testified that the checks were payments on invoices as noted 24 on the memorandum line of each check. He supplied the court with 25

---

26 <sup>12</sup>Exhibit 9

1 copies of invoices matching the invoice numbers and amounts.<sup>13</sup>

2 Chand testified that when the checks were issued the memorandum
3 line was blank and that the Market never purchased additional inventory
4 from Kumar. The court is not a handwriting expert but notes that the 5 writing on the check and memorandum line is similar.

6 Based on events following the sale, Chand's testimony that 7 significant payments were made to Kumar at the same time as the 8 installment payments due on the Note is not persuasive. Immediately
9 after the sale closed a dispute arose as to whether the sale included
10 Kumar's internet business or just the Market. This resulted in the 11 Market generating less income than Debtor anticipated, and ultimately, 12 pre-bankruptcy litigation between the parties. It is difficult to 13 believe Debtor would voluntarily pay Kumar more than required once this 14 dispute arose.

15 The court finds that the in-store payments made to Kumar were 16 purchases of inventory and not payments on the Note based on the 17 invoice numbers provided on the checks, the similarity of handwriting 18 on the checks and the related invoices. There is no reduction to the 19 Claim based on these payments.

20
21 (5) Credit Card Transactions

22 Debtor lacked the ability to process credit card payments when it
23 purchased the Market. From August 14 through December 15, 2008, Kumar
24 allowed credit card transactions to be processed through his account.

25
26

---

<sup>13</sup>Exhibit J

1 Funds received from these sales were deposited into Kumar's account.
2 Kumar than deducted the associated fees and issued Debtor a check for 3 the difference.

4 Debtor asserts it is owed $38,095.82 for credit card charges
5 received by Kumar but not paid to Debtor.<sup>14</sup> Kumar testified that no 6 additional funds are due because the unpaid amounts were applied to 7 outstanding invoices or were for charges made by customers of Kumar.

8 Debtor provided copies of credit card and bank statements
9 associated with this period.<sup>15</sup> The parties stipulated that the checks
10 introduced as payments made by Kumar, totaling $114,146.17,<sup>16</sup> were all
11 the payments made by Kumar to Debtor on account of credit card
12 transactions. Based on these records, Chand testified that Kumar did
13 not transfer $38,095.82, and Kumar's claim should be reduced
14 accordingly.

15 Kumar testified that he was aware of at least one transaction, in 16 the approximate amount of $6,000, where he used the credit card machine
17 in the Market to process a charge for the benefit of his other business
18 interests. Kumar was not able to identify the charge in question
19 during his testimony. Absent testimony specifying the date and amount 20 of the transaction, the court is unable to identify the particular 21

---

22 <sup>14</sup>In support of its accounting, the Debtor admitted into 23 evidence the credit card transactions using Kumar's credit card
24 account, Exhibit 6, and the payments from Kumar on funds
25 collected on behalf of Debtor using Kumar's credit card account, 26 Exhibit 7.

<sup>15</sup>Exhibit 6

<sup>16</sup>Exhibit 7

1 transaction. Further, a review of the bank statements reveals that 2 there is no credit for a transaction in the approximate amount of 3 $6,000 during this four month period. On recall, Kumar stated that the 4 credit card transactions also were offset against invoices due from the 5 Market. In support of this argument, two original invoices from "Fiji 6 Market" with a "Joyti Kumar" return address sticker over the name were 7 admitted.<sup>17</sup> The original invoices are worn and dated in November and 8 December 2008. Each invoice contains a notation (one in red ink, the 9 other in black ink) each stating the invoice was "Paid by Card
10 Processing 12/20/08." These invoices were produced for the first time 11 during Kumar's testimony on recall and were not exchanged between the 12 parties prior to the hearing. No testimony was provided regarding a 13 reconciliation in December 2008 that would have resulted in two 14 separate invoices being applied on the same date but at separate times.
15 These invoices are of little probative value.

16 Debtor has established Kumar failed to reimburse Debtor $38,095.82
17 for credit card transactions. This amount will be offset against 18 Debtor's obligation to Kumar under the Note.

19
20 C. Conclusion

21 For the reasons set forth above, the court finds that Debtor's
22 objection to the Claim will be overruled in part and sustained in part.
23 In addition to the agreed payments of $46,000 on the Note, the Note 24 obligation shall be reduced by the following:

25 $31,000 for monthly payments through March 2009,

1           $75,000           paid by cashier's check and
2           $38,095.82       for outstanding credit card reconciliation
3                           amounts.

4           Kumar is entitled to interest through the petition date in 5 accordance with the terms of the Note. Such interest shall be 6 calculated on the declining principal balance as and after the credits
7 determined herein are applied.

8           Kumar is not entitled to attorney's fees as there is no prevailing
9 party to this dispute. Debtor admitted that Kumar had a valid claim
10 based on the Note. The objection sought to reduce the claim amount by 11 applying disputed payments as discussed above. As the court found in 12 favor of each party for portions of the disputed issues there is no
13 prevailing party.

14          Debtor's objection to Kumar's Proof of Claim No. 4, asserting a 15 claim against a non-debtor, is granted.

16          Counsel for the Debtor is directed to submit an order, approved
17 as to form by Kumar's counsel, in accordance with this Memorandum
18 Decision.

19
20                           **END OF MEMORANDUM DECISION**
21
22
23
24
25
26

COURT SERVICE LIST

All parties by ECF

Decision

12